CHANGES

“Without change, there would be no butterflies.”

-Unknown

Change is inevitable. Good or bad, wanted or unwanted, change is going to come. I recently was reminded of this when I moved across town. It was very much a needed and wanted change, but it was still hard. It was both physically and mentally exhausting. It was not just the packing and unpacking, but it was changing the utilities over and changing my address on 100 different things. But even all of that wasn't the hardest part. Waking up the first day in my new place quickly made me realize everything was different. My usual routines were thrown off, my usual storage places hadn't been established yet, and it was hard to find anything when I needed it. Even my driving routines were different. All my “norms” were no longer normal, and nothing felt comfortable. I know in a few short weeks I will have everything put away where I want it and will establish a new set of routines that will begin to feel comfortable again. But no matter how much better this change is, and even though this feels like growth to me, it has not been easy.

Whatever we think or feel about change—or how much we try to avoid it, life is made up of the ebb and flow of change. The good news in all of this is that God is our constant through all our changes because He is perfect and never changes. I love the scripture in James 1:17 that says, “Every good gift and every perfect gift is from above, and comes down from the Father of lights, with whom there is no variation or shadow of turning.” In other words, God doesn't have a dark side and won't surprise us with a bad mood or simply change His mind and decide He doesn't care for us anymore. Like the saying goes, God is good—all the time! Even when it's hard to navigate the changes in our lives, we can trust Him to never leave or forsake us. My grandma used to say, “Hold to God's unchanging hand.” That was always a great comfort amid the uncertainty of change.

I want to share a poem I wrote several years ago about how hard growth and change can be. This poem uses the example of the metamorphosis of a butterfly. When the butterfly first emerges from the cocoon, it struggles to break free. But it's in the struggle that it gains the strength to fly. May we all hold to God's unchanging hand and find the strength and comfort we need for whatever change or struggle we may be currently facing.

In His love,

Karen

Chrysalis

For a moment
I see a glimpse of a life I once lived.
I crawl upward,
Pushing my belly away from gravel and mud,
Straining to see the hope of something more.
How many lives have I lived that were not my own?
Spinning endlessly
In this cycle of rebirth,
I cling to my destiny
With tightly wound anticipation.

Hanging from a tiny strand,
I wait
Inside this vulnerable grave.
Suspended in time,
I struggle to break free.
I will break forth from the most bandaged part of my soul.
And then... I will fly!

LADIES SMALL GROUP LUNCHES

After a lovely garden party at the home of Anita Tilley, we felt the need to spend more time together and deepen our relationships. So we will begin to meet quarterly (starting the end of October to mid-November) in small groups of four with a hostess for each group. The hostess's job is to contact the other ladies in her group and decide the location and time to meet (her home, Dutch treat at a local restaurant, or a sack lunch at the church). Groups and hostesses will change with each gathering.

We now have 38 ladies interested in our next gathering, and we would like for you to join us. Please call Jeri Behan (615-604-8015) if you have any questions, and if you want to be added to the list, text your name and number. Hope to hear from you soon!

MARK YOUR CALENDARS...

We are planning a church picnic at Granny White Park on September 6 at 5:30 pm. Watch for more details to come, and plan to join us!

WEDNESDAY NIGHT SPECIAL KICK OFF

Pull out your favorite football jersey or T-shirt and save the evening of Wednesday, September 13th for our Wednesday Night Supper and Classes Kick Off. And kick off we will with tailgate-type food on the menu (did someone say chicken wings?!), and games, fun and fellowship to follow. There's even rumors of a halftime show with Jay McCulley leading the band. No classes on our first night, just a chance to bring us all together, youth and KOK'ers included. Kick off is 5:45 pm. Save the date!

MY OWN BACKYARD

As school has started, there is a greater need to help children with school lunches. My Own Backyard Ministry is in need of non-perishable snacks to stock their pantry. They could use peanut butter crackers, fruit cups, cookies, chips, raisins, etc., as long as they are individually wrapped. For your convenience, there is a bin for My Own Backyard set up by the office to drop off your donations.
